Taylor learning at home!

Friday, June 19, 2020.

Happy Friday Friends!

Can you believe that we are at the last weekend before the end of the school year?

Today will be the last official Daily Learning Newsletter for the school year. Next week I will send a mini newsletter each day with information and activities for you to read and do at your leisure.

I would like to take a quick moment to wish all the dad's in our class a very Happy Father's Day on Sunday. Boys and girls, make sure you tell your dad, step dad, grandpa, papa, opa, uncle, friend or any other man that you look up to, that you love them and thank them for all the amazing things they do for you each and every day. They are special people!

Have a wonderful weekend everyone!
Mrs. Haidner

Metis Dot Art:

Thank you Mrs. Stableforth for sending along another Metis Dot Art example.

Grade 2's, today I challenge you to try the Turtle Metis Dot Art or be adventurous and try another animal and share it. I would love to see your creations!

Daily Website Review:

Social Studies Task

Today we are going to create our own world map.

Click on the link continents cut-outs. Can you identify all of the continents?

Choose one of the options below.

1. Colour and cut-out the continents from the link above. Some areas might be difficult to cut out. Just do your best.
2. Draw your own continents. Colour and cut-out your continents.

Now glue your continents to a piece of paper. You can use the example below to help you figure out where they belong.

*You can also choose to label your continents.

Have a “FANTASTIC FRIDAY” everyone!
